

Warning:

The consumption of alcohol may give you, and only you, the impression that every little thought that enters your mind is absolutely brilliant and worth repeating several times throughout the evening.

